Outcomes

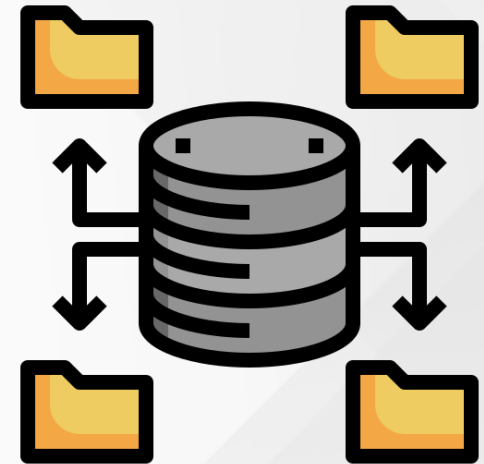

After this session, we will be able to find the various insights of HR data using various analytical functions and project the findings in the form of various visually attractive charts.

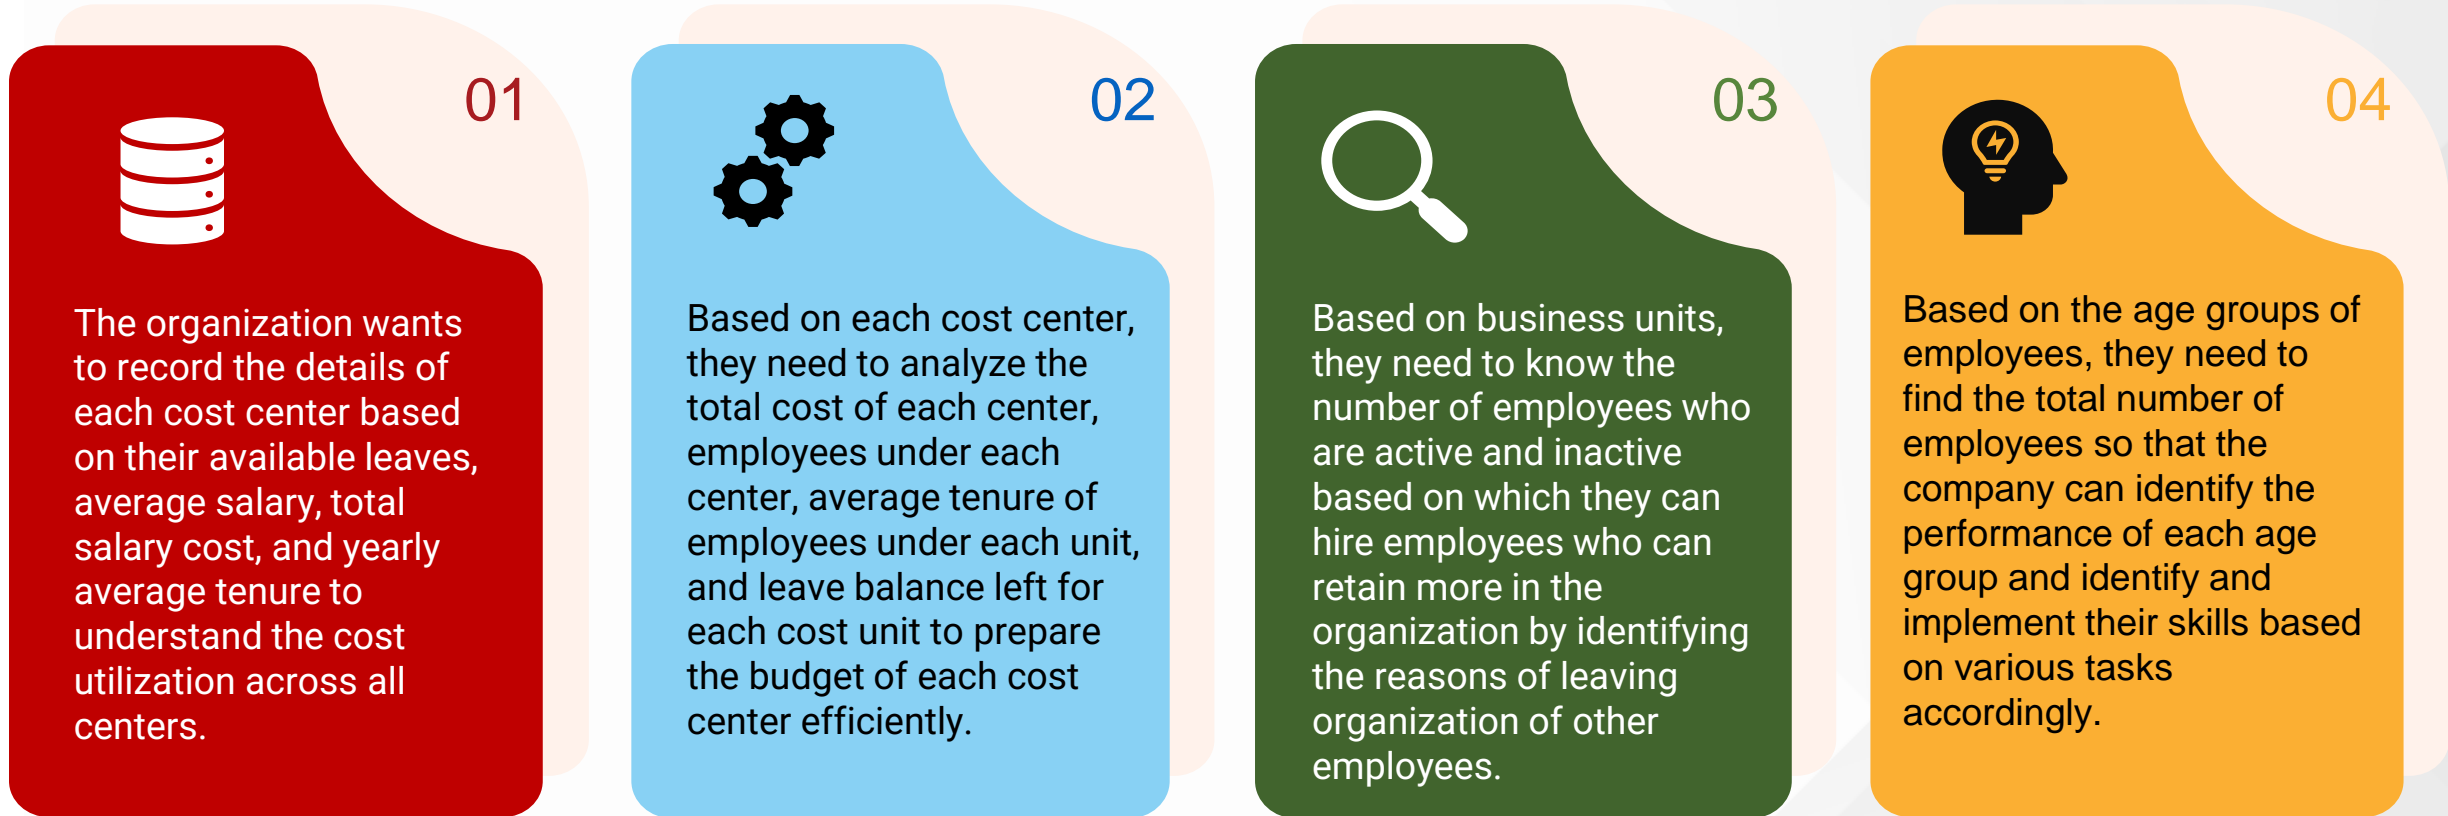

Dataset

It is an HR data consisting of the details of all employees of different nature of work and age groups and various parameters based on their activeness in the organization.

We need to analyze the data and visualize the insights for the HR department to analyze what steps are to be taken by them for employee retention and satisfaction.

Based on the Analysis, the Organization Wants to Put Them Into Visuals
